A warship tasked with defending the coastal region of the city. The city is also the foothold of the eastern Shandong province, where the outside world is located. This looks like a large battleship, which can be deployed quickly. The tower battleship is the Shandong Province -2, and is equipped with all of the turrets. There are 4 turrets in total: 1 Sea Of Dragon, 1 Sea Of Phoenix, 1 Sea Of Tiger and 1 Sea Of Phoenix Sea of Dragon turret: If an enemy air strike is detected on the sea, a sea of dragon will be deployed. The sea of dragon consists of 6 flame-spouting dragons, and uses the sea of dragon-shaped clouds to disperse the attack of enemy aircraft. If the first wave of enemy aircraft is repelled, then the sea of dragon will be deployed. When repelling the 2nd, 3rd and 4th waves of enemy aircraft, the sea of dragon will be deployed every time. The sea of dragon consists of 6 flame-spouting dragons. If the enemy moves into the sea of dragon, the sea of dragon will deploy the first wave of 6 dragons. The sea of dragon is better equipped than the normal turret. Sea of Phoenix turret: Lightning strikes from the south, destroying the aircraft that flies over it. If the lightning strikes the enemy aircraft, it will be destroyed. The sea of dragon is able to also be used as a scout plane, dispersing the enemy's air strikes. Sea of Tiger turret: The sea of tiger consists of 8 fire-spouting tigers, and uses a sea of tiger-shaped clouds to disperse the attack of enemy aircraft. If the first wave of enemy aircraft is repelled, then the sea of tiger will be deployed. When repelling the 2nd, 3rd and 4th waves of enemy aircraft, the sea of tiger will be deployed every time. The sea of tiger consists of 8 fire-spouting tigers. If the enemy moves into the sea of tiger, the sea of tiger will deploy the first wave of 8 tigers. It is better equipped than the normal turret. Sea of Phoenix turret: Lightning strikes from the north, destroying the aircraft that flies over it. If the lightning strikes the enemy aircraft, it will be destroyed. The sea of tiger is able to also be used as a scout plane, dispersing the enemy's air strikes.

And I am trying to use Filter along with Items, however the filter is not working at all. I read the documentation and seems to be the right way to use with ext:filter, but my data in this format. {"user_id": "4", "file": "user.png", "file_name": "User.png", "file_type": "image/png", "file_name_raw": "User.png", "filename": "User.png"} But I'm unable to find the logic to use Ext.util.Filter. I assume it is because of the internal json encoded string, so kindly someone tell me how to filter the data with ext:filter. A: The problem is that you are using the plain Array constructor for those objects; the internal data is no longer stringified. If you had the object already, you could use object notation. Ext.define('MyObject', { / * @cfg {Array} items * List of array items of MyObject */ }); Then later: MyObject[0].name = 'My First Object' MyObject[1].name = 'My Second Object' Then you could safely use Ext.util.Filter for data like this: var filteredItems = Ext.util.Filter.filter(myObjects, function(myObject){ return myObject.name === 'My Second Object'; });

The stars were bright and clear and shining in the cold clear heaven as they had been on that long-ago night, and yet in the mystery of it all they seemed to speak of something more. The children all who had seen Santa Claus as a play of memories and dreams were waiting. It was Christmas Eve at last: the one night of the year when they all slept and dreamt of things and were sent waking in

The Rescue Bear Operation () was the escape of a group of elderly prisoners, as well as civilian hostages and Soviet officers and women, from the post-World War II former Nazi concentration camp, Sachsenhausen. On the morning of 26 April 1945, 25 soldiers from the 1st Guards Rifle Brigade of the Red Army, under the command of Colonel Boris Leopoldovich Apanasenko, along with 2 Soviet women, entered the camp disguised as commandos from the 16th Brigade. They freed the prisoners dressed in German uniforms, and died alongside them in the barrack. The three Soviet women were later posthumously awarded the titles Hero of the Soviet Union and Hero of the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic. The captured senior Nazi officers () and internees were taken into Soviet custody and later interned in Shakhty. The details of the operation had been kept secret until 1990, due to the security classification, until it was declassified. Background A number of Nazi concentration camps liberated by the Red Army, including the Wehrmacht prisoner camps established in the Soviet Union (), had accumulated a sizeable population of ex-gaullist soldiers who served under fascist regimes. Before the final defeat of Nazi Germany in Europe, 2nd Guards Tank Army reported the capture of 930 former Wehrmacht and SS soldiers. These soldiers and their families were placed under the custody of the Soviet government where they were given food, clothing and money. Determining that there was a need to determine the former prisoners' situation, on 10 April 1945, a decision was made to organize an evacuation operation to transfer them to evacuated camps of the Red Army. Soldiers of the 1st Guards Rifle Division, part of the 6th Guards Army, reported the capture of 36 prisoners on 11 April, mostly common criminals from occupied eastern Europe. Their count soon reached the number of 157 men and women, while the local administration of the former Sachsenhausen concentration camp, then part of "liberated", reported an arrest of 468 prisoners. Escape and rescue operation The operation was planned to take place between 25 and 26 April 1945, the former prisoners were to be assembled on the 300 metre-wide main gate on the main avenue of the camp, then be escorted by the Red Army, their women helpers and the prisoners. The prisoners were to be dressed in German army uniforms, with caps and green armbands, accompanied by a Red Army officer, who refused to take part in the

In a world long since subjugated by the tyrannical empire of the Valorians, storyteller and adventurer Sir Pendrell has decided to call on the power of words to stand against the Valorian onslaught. Taking the form of a wandering minstrel, who details the exploits of heroes, and of epic battles and feats of arms - at a time when magic is under the control of the imperial regime - Pendrell takes his stories to the people, much to the chagrin of the public executioner who accompanies him on stage. How it plays: Sir Pendrell's Words is a single-player, story-driven narrative adventure. It is paced by dialogues and battles between the player and the NPC characters in the game. As the player speaks to and interrogates them, the game will unfold in front of the player's eyes. Telling the stories of legend, the game has the feel of a fantasy novel, with the added puzzle gameplay, RPG elements and storytelling elements of a game. It takes hours to learn the ins and outs of the game. The player will often find himself wondering if his efforts are actually doing anything. And yet, after many hours of playing, they gain a deeper understanding of the world and its many characters, and become engulfed in their tales. The player will take control of a band of adventurers who explore the lands and delve into dungeons to gain items, gold and glory. And along the way, they will face some of the biggest challenges - the epic battles with which they will ultimately be judged by the NPC characters. The player will stand on stage and narrate with a band of wandering adventurers as they journey from town to town, city to city, far across land and sea. They will discover secrets and stories along the way, each time overcoming a new challenge. The player's efforts and the world they have created will be judged by the characters and NPC characters of the game. And, ultimately, the player must decide how they want to play their part. This game features dialogue, battles, riddles, puzzles, conversations and an epic score.
